

Casajus Vendimia Seleccionada 2012

92 Points

Produced from Tempranillo grown in estate vineyards that are head pruned, fermented with indigenous yeast, and aged for French and American oak casks. It has a textbook nose of Ribera del Duero with very typical aromas of plums, cherries, and strawberries with sweet spices from the casks. An exemplary wine. The palate is medium to full bodied with good weight of fruit, round tannins, and flavors that bring back all the notes found in the nose, coming through as

Casajus Antiguos Vinedos 2011

92 Points

Casajus Antiguos Vinedos 2011 is produced from estate grown Tempranillo and aged for 14 months in oak casks. Malolactic fermentation was also done in oak casks. The fruit is ripe with mixed notes of red and black berries which are well integrated, with sweet spices and smoke aromas from the cask. The palate is medium to full bodied with plenty of smoky flavors and abundant, fine grained tannins that will benefit from more bottle aging.

August, 2014

Casajus Antiguos Vinedos 2011

92 Points

Casajus Antiguos Vinedos 2011 is produced from estate grown Tempranillo and aged for 14 months in oak casks. Malolactic fermentation was also done in oak casks. The fruit is ripe with mixed notes of red and black berries which are well integrated, with sweet spices and smoke aromas from the cask. The palate is medium to full bodied with plenty of smoky flavors and abundant, fine grained tannins that will benefit from more bottle aging.

August, 2014

Casajus Antiguos Vinedos 2011

92 Points

Casajus Antiguos Vinedos 2011 is produced from estate grown Tempranillo and aged for 14 months in oak casks. Malolactic fermentation was also done in oak casks. The fruit is ripe with mixed notes of red and black berries which are well integrated, with sweet spices and smoke aromas from the cask. The palate is medium to full bodied with plenty of smoky flavors and abundant, fine grained tannins that will benefit from more bottle aging.

August, 2014

Casajus Antiguos Vinedos 2011

92 Points

Casajus Antiguos Vinedos 2011 is produced from estate grown Tempranillo and aged for 14 months in oak casks. Malolactic fermentation was also done in oak casks. The fruit is ripe with mixed notes of red and black berries which are well integrated, with sweet spices and smoke aromas from the cask. The palate is medium to full bodied with plenty of smoky flavors and abundant, fine grained tannins that will benefit from more bottle aging.

August, 2014

Casajus Antiguos Vinedos 2011

92 Points

Casajus Antiguos Vinedos 2011 is produced from estate grown Tempranillo and aged for 14 months in oak casks. Malolactic fermentation was also done in oak casks. The fruit is ripe with mixed notes of red and black berries which are well integrated, with sweet spices and smoke aromas from the cask. The palate is medium to full bodied with plenty of smoky flavors and abundant, fine grained tannins that will benefit from more bottle aging.

August, 2014